

Recruiting Teachers

For Church of England secondary schools across London

We are recruiting teachers to join our extended family of over 8,000 members of staff working in our growing number of Church of England secondary schools across London. There are Church of England secondary schools in almost every borough.

You will have access to high quality CPD and training at every stage of your career, within your school and across the family of schools. There are opportunities for NQTs as well as more experienced teachers.

Our secondary schools are excellent: 60% are graded Outstanding by Ofsted.

Our secondary schools have high standards: our exam result averages are well above national averages.

Our secondary schools are as diverse as the communities they serve.

Apply directly to the LDBS (London Diocesan Board for Schools) and we will do the rest.

- We will let you know about vacant posts as they arise;
- we will invite you to showcase and networking events;
- and we will pass your application direct to schools for suitable posts.
